THE AMERICAN'S CREED

I believe in the United States of America, as a government of the people, by the people, and for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies.

The American's Creed, by William Tyler Page, was adopted by an Act of Congress, April 6, 1918.

JOVIAL MR. TUCK ALWAYS WINS HIS RACE

THE MARINES have landed in Virginia and the situation is well in hand.

William Munford Tuck (Washington and Lee [Va. Epsilon]), the 45-year-old 225-pound ex-Marine of the infectious smile and enviable legislative record, will report for duty as second in command of Virginia's governmental affairs on January 21, 1942.

A bare few minutes after he takes his oath as Lieutenant-Governor, standing on the broad portico of the Capitol, the other ex-Marine of whom Virginians are justly proud, will take his oath as the State's Chief Executive. Colgate Whitehead Darden of Norfolk and William Munford Tuck of South Boston—soldiers first but lawyers, farmers, bankers, politicians, orators and statesmen as well, with records for bravery at home and abroad, on the fields of battle as well as in legislative halls—will take over the reins of State government. The Marines will have landed and the situation will be well in hand.

With 17 years of continuous service in the State Legislature to which he was first elected at the age of 27, Virginia's new Lieutenant-Governor is decidedly no novice. "Bill" Tuck, as he is most affectionately known by friends in all walks of life and from every corner of the State, has been running for something ever since he left Halifax County, aged 17, weight 150 pounds, and landed at William and Mary College. There, it was track, and he discovered long-distance running was his long suit. He wound up by winning his letter and the two-mile race at the State intercollegiate track meet at Blacksburg in the spring of 1917. A diploma and football honors were thrown in for good measure by the time his stay in Williamsburg had been completed.

Into the next six years he crowded work as a high school principal, service in the Marine Corps and study leading to acquisition of a law degree from Washington and Lee University. Then he hung out his shingle in South Boston and shortly afterwards ran for election to the House of Delegates. Though it was the first time he had sought public office, he not only won the election but led a three-way ticket with a majority of more than 900 votes. He's been running and winning ever since.

Winning Stride

In 1931, after seven years of service in the House, he decided to run for the Senate. Though it required lengthening his stride, the race was won and by no mean majority. Since he took his seat in the Senate in 1932, he has been unopposed for re-election.

Just a year ago he threw his hat in the ring in the race for Lieutenant-Governor, but in that race he carried off the honors in a walk.

Only once in Lieutenant-Governor-elect Tuck's political career has he slowed up; and, in fact, retired. In 1928, he decided he was neglecting his law practice for politics—they were just taking up too much time and he was going to retire, and did. But there was a reason for that. In the midst of the 1928 session of the General Assembly, Bill Tuck, the confirmed bachelor, had married on February 26. Due to the pressure of legislative affairs, his honeymoon had to be cut to just a few days and the rest of the session seemed to him to move on leaden feet. When he went back home, he decided to stay there. He didn't stand for re-election and his successor was named and took his seat. When the 1930 session of the General Assembly convened, Bill Tuck was present only in spirit. Then, shortly after its convening, one of the delegates from Halifax died. By that time, Mr. Tuck could stand the strain no longer—he wanted to get back in if the people would send him. They did. The House hardly had gotten down to real business before Mr. Tuck was back in harness—with his wife's blessing, law practice or no law practice.

Bill Tuck has heard about politics ever since he was born. His father, the late Robert James Tuck, was a member of the House of Delegates when Bill was just a chip of a boy. At his father's knee, he listened and learned on those long, cold winter evenings before the fire when his home was the meeting place in the county and politics the most popular subject of conversation. Those were the horse-and-buggy days and when visitors came they stayed. Whether it be summer or winter, anyone with a turn for politics could learn a lot. He did. He practiced what he learned in college politics and kept right on into the big league.

The highest honors in the Senate of Virginia have been conferred upon Mr. Tuck by his colleagues. Upon taking his seat in the Senate in 1932, he was appointed a member of the two most coveted committees, Steering and Finance, and has served on these continuously. He was also chairman of the General Laws Committee and a member of the Privileges and Elections, Nominations and Interstate Co-operation Committees.

In 1938, his colleagues elected him chairman of the Democratic caucus of the Senate, and as such he was floor leader, whose duty it is to appoint the members of the all-important Steering Committee. This committee, in turn, selects the personnel of the other committees.

While a member of the House, he was also a member of the Finance Committee as well as the Courts of Justice Committee. Sound finance has been one of his chief interests since first entering the Legislature. During Governor Peery's term of office, Mr. Tuck introduced a bill authorizing the refunding of the State's Century bonds and their refinancing at a lower rate of interest, thereby saving several millions of dollars in interest.

In 1940, Mr. Tuck was a member of the five-man Senate subcommittee which, after nearly a week of burning the midnight oil, brought the appropriation bill to balance after the Finance Committee had wrestled with it in vain and a wornout Legislature faced the possibility of an indefinitely prolonged session. The report of the sub-committee was accepted, the bill, with amendments, passed both houses and Legislature peacefully adjourned. The idea of appointing the sub-committee was his.

Maiden Speech Aided Byrd

Voters of Virginia first heard of Bill Tuck's voice raised in behalf of Democratic candidates when in 1920, as a student at Washington and Lee Law School, he engaged in a joint debate on the merits of Cox versus Harding. Three Democratic and three Republican students (one of the latter being Fred Parks, now State senator from Washington, Smyth and the City of Bristol), packed the Lexington Theatre with their fiery oratory and the audience of more than 2,500 overflowed into the corridors. MILTON YEATS

Author of New American Anthem

MILTON YEATS, University of Florida (Fla. Alpha), is the author of a stirring new patriotic song "American Anthem." This newest Yeats song, "Dedicated to You Who Save America," and carrying the explanatory sub title "Americanism Set to Music—a song of devotion to America and rededication to Her ideals and fundamental principles" is a Belwin publication, distributed by Boosey, Hawkes, Belwin, Inc., 43-47 West 23rd St., New York City.

Indicative of the wide-spread use expected for "American Anthem" is the fact that it is to be had in the following arrangements: piano-voice, chorus, full band, symphonic band, string orchestra, full orchestra, and drum and bugle corps.

Already the "American Anthem" has been adopted for use in the Florida schools, for the State Music Festival, and by the Florida School Vocal Association, and its widespread use in Florida and elsewhere indicate its increasingly extensive use and approval over the nation, the ideal being to enable the average American of whatever age, race, or creed, to express, in few words and appropriate music, those essential American ideals, concepts and principles which have made us a great nation.

At the University of Florida, from which he holds the degrees of A.B. and J.D., Yeats was, in addition to being a charter member of Florida Alpha, a member of Blue Key (Activities), Phi Kappa Phi (Scholarship), and Phi Delta Phi (Law). His activities career was climaxed by the presidency of the Florida student body.

He is the author of the Florida "Alma Mater," "Sig Ep Heart—the Love Song of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity," and a number of sound songs. In addition he has had long and varied experience with various musical organizations, including quartets, radio work, and choirs in various churches and synagogues.

Despite his musical interest and activity Milton Yeats is "first, last and always, a lawyer." In this capacity he has served as President of the Tampa and County Bar, was active in the State Bar's successful program to regulate the practice of law by Supreme Court rules, and has served on the Board of Visitors of the County Juvenile Detention Home.

He is listed in Who's Who in Law, Who's Who in Masonry, Who's Who in Florida.

William Wayne Hindman, Jr., University of Pennsylvania (Pa. Delta), '39, has been appointed to replace him, thus becoming the fourteenth Traveling Secretary since the position was created for and by Clarence H. Freeark, University of Illinois (Ill. Alpha), back in 1922.

The fact that a strapping six footer like Bill Hindman is not, like his predecessor, a member of one of the branches of the service, is explained by a 4-F classification resulting from a blood pressure condition which, though barring him from the service, has not interfered with his normal functioning as an employee of the General Electric Company, and will not be discernible to the members of Sigma Phi Epsilon with whom he will work.

Succeeds Pulley As Traveling Secretary

Bill Hindman was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., on November 11, 1917, and has lived successively at Sewickley, Pa., and Baltimore, Md.

He attended Friends School and Gettysburg Academy where he played tennis, was manager of baseball, associate manager of football, captain of the rifle team, business manager of the year book and valedictorian of his class.

of B.S. in Economics, he continued this same versatility, both in campus and chapter activities.

In commenting on his undergraduate career Pennsylvania Delta Chapter President Bob White writes: "An astute politician, Bill was a real fraternity man, for his efforts were guided by the desire to give his fraternity prominence rather than himself. Among other things he was a member of the Business Board of the Daily Pennsylvanian, student newspaper, and of the Business Board of the Punch Bowl, campus humor magazine. In addition, he was editor-in-chief of the Freshman Handbook, manager of the University band, president of the Methodist Cabinet, vice-president of the Christian Association, and member of the Fanfare Society. Bill's crowning achievement was reached upon his election to Friars, the honorary Senior Society.

But Bill did not confine all of his activities, to university functions by any means. In the chapter he held the offices of initiation chairman, rushing chairman, and vice-president, doing an efficient job in each. Moreover, he was considerably above the average as a student. All of which serves to stamp the fraternity's new Traveling Secretary as something of a miracle man during his college days."

Since graduation he has been employed in the accounting department of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours, Inc., Wilmington, Del.; and the Wage Rate Department of the General Electric Co. at Bridgeport, Conn. Meanwhile he has taken the Management Training Course in Sales and Merchandising

Thirty-fifth Anniversary Celebrated by

MASSACHUSETTS BETA celebrated its 35th year on the campus of Worcester Polytechnic Institute in conjunction with its chapter Convocation. This annual gathering of the clan has been held for the past few years on Homecoming week end, a comparatively recent innovation at Tech. Saturday and Sunday, October 25 and 26 were the days.

Saturday morning and afternoon were for the Institute: inspection of the completed auditorium and library, Alden Memorial, and the Higgins Laboratories for Mechanical Engineering, still under construction. The afternoon shadows saw the football team consistent in its scoring power—"0"—while Massachusetts State put over five touchdowns. We had to please our Massachusetts Alpha Sig Ep guests.

After the game the actives and alumni, sweethearts and families, descended on the fraternity house and the bountiful buffet supper. The house itself was flood-lighted, showing up to good advantage the huge "Welcome Alumni" sign, the big replica of the badge, the fraternity flag.

Inside, the basement game rooms were transformed into a lounge for quiet conversation and bridge and an exhibit of historical memorabilia of the chapter's 35 years as Delta Tau, Theta Upsilon Omega and Sig Ep.

'Twas not so quiet on the first floor. As the evening wore on supper gave way to dancing, movies of Tech's footballers, colored slides of the 1940, 11,000 mile auto trek to the Los Angeles "Conclave of the Golden West" and then dancing once more.

The next morning members reconvened in the annual corporation meeting. Interest was focused on District Governor Milton Egan and Grand Secretary William L. Phillips. The latter was making his first visit to Worcester. Interest was also evident in better housing as the discussion of more suitable quarters nearer the campus proved.

The meeting adjourned soon after noon to gather down town for the Convocation Banquet. Here, after a fine meal, Toastmaster E. Daniel Johnson, '21, called upon chapter president "Bob" Allen, '42, sophomore "Lyn" Rice, '44, Herbert M. "Doc" Carleton, '08, one of the eleven founders of the fraternity, and Grand Secretary Phillips. All had a message; all added to the meaning of fraternity and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

This two day program brought together all of the actives and many alumni, some for one day, more for both. Twenty-three actives and fifty alumni was the count in addition to the Grand Secretary, District Governor, four Sig Eps from Massachusetts Alpha and three from New York Gamma. Connecticut led the pack for out-of-staters with six alumni; New York was right behind with five; Maryland the most distant.

their toll. In twenty-eight states and the District of Columbia, from Maine to California, from Canada to Florida, are scattered our members.

The fraternity was brought into being by Wallace T. Roberts, '08, and ten others on February 17, 1906. Then there were two nationals and three other locals on the Hill, now nine nationals have representation. The fraternity remained a local, Delta Tau, through the years from 1906 until 1924 when, as a result of attendance at the Inter-Local Fraternity Conference in New York City in 1923, it joined with nine others in the new fraternity, Theta Upsilon Omega. We became Sig Eps with the TUO-Sigma Phi Epsilon merger of 1938.

The fraternity has always had a vital part in the life at the Institute. At present there are five faculty members including Dean Jerome W. Howe, '09, and Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds Prof. Arthur J. Knight, '07. Two graduates are on the Board of Trustees of the Institute, another is a member of the Alumni Council, many more are active in the alumni chapters.

Sammy Gets a Gun!

SAM CHAPMAN and BOB FELLER: Cleveland's star pitcher, leave the Norfolk barracks together.

The following is from Jack Rosenbaum's column, "Johnny, Get Your Gun," in the San Francisco News.

AN impatient young fellow waits in his home in Tiburon for a telegram.

"I'd like to get started," says Sammy Chapman, University of California (Calif. Alpha) '38, "This waiting around is awful."

Sammy's impatience to receive word from Washington to report to Lieut. Com. Gene Tunney at Norfolk, Va., is understandable.

As a five-sport letter winner at Tamalpais High; as a two-sport star at California, and more lately as a star outfielder with the Philadelphia Athletics, Sammy hasn't done much waiting around.

It's a new experience and he doesn't like it no-how.

Chapman is one of many athletes who have been accepted by Tunney to help in the naval athletic program. He expects to spend six weeks at Norfolk training for his new job.

"After that," smiles Sammy, "I have no idea in the world where I'll be transferred. I hope we'll be in Tokio by that time."

Over at Tamalpais High in Mill Valley the name Sammy Chapman is revered. And why not? He is listed as one of the greatest all-time, all-around athletes in the history of the school.

How he managed to compete in football, baseball, basketball, track and soccer—and still carry a full schedule of courses—is somewhat of a mystery. But the athletic records and the dean's office, prove it.

Sammy played shortstop on the baseball team and during his three years on the squad, Tamalpais won the North Bay League title three times. He shifted between tackle and every position in the backfield in football. He played on one league championship team.

Sammy's decision to enter California, when a dozer schools painted the glories of their respective institutions is no surprise. His coach during the 1933 season was Roy Riegels, captain and center of California's 1928 Rose Bowl team.

Chapman confined his athletics to football and baseball at California. In football, he became an All-American right halfback. In baseball—well, he went to the big leagues in May, 1939, after graduation from California and he's still up there. Or was, we should say, until he enlisted.

"The greatest right halfback I have ever seen," Coach Stub Allison of California told us after California had whipped Alabama in the Rose Bowl on January 1, 1938.

And Stub confided just a few weeks ago that a Sammy Chapman running those reverses from right half would have given the Bears a great team this fall.

Strangely enough, Sammy only played three or four games

The* COMPULSION *of

WOODROW WILSON is the author of the statement: "The commands of democracy are as imperative as its privileges and opportunities are wide and generous. Its compulsion is upon us." In these troubled days fraternity men might well paraphrase this statement to read: The commands of fraternity membership are as imperative as its privileges and opportunities are wide and generous. Its compulsion is upon us.

Since the terrifying news of the dastardly attack on Pearl Harbor came screaming from our radios the one question of every American has been: "What can I do?" And now that they have come to realize the grim peril in which their cherished fraternities stand fraternity men everywhere are asking: "What can I do?"

The following suggestions do not presume to be a complete answer. Assurance is given, however, that careful and conscientious compliance with them by the men of the undergraduate chapters, will greatly strengthen those chapters for the long hard pull ahead.

FURNISHINGS and EQUIPMENT—The exercise of unusual caution in the use of furnishings and equipment, farsighted and foresighted repair or restoration before damage becomes irreparable, will result in use for the duration of many things which would otherwise have to be replaced. ELECTRICITY—Light bills can be reduced materially by a continuing campaign to turn out all lights not in use and by the use of smaller bulbs in entrance ways, halls, floor lamps and other fixtures whose effect is largely decorative. WATER—The packing of any and all dripping faucets, the use of the stoppers in washbowls, and a minute or two less to each shower, will greatly reduce water bills. SMART SHOPPING—A House Manager or Steward can effect major savings if he will cut out telephoned grocery orders, shop personally, take advantage of "Specials," consult with the cook about the use of cheaper but equally good cuts of meat and the tasty use of leftovers. SELF HELP—In the dining room, the furnace room, the yard, avail yourselves of the services of your own men wherever possible. One or two or three men in each chapter who might not find it possible to do so otherwise will thus have extended to them the privileges of fraternity membership; the chapter will reap the several benefits flowing from the maintenance of near-normal numbers. SOCIAL FUNCTIONS—Eliminate corsages, favors, printed or engraved invitations, Christmas cards. Substitute recordings for orchestras, in short, substitute cleverness and ingenuity for ostentatious outlay of money. COLLECTIONS—By careful planning and vigorous economy cut all chapter fees to a bare minimum. Collect that amount. Allow no accounts receivable to accumulate. SALVAGE OF STRATEGIC MATERIALS—Delegate someone to arrange for the periodic collection of strategic defense materials—paper, rubber, metals. Call one of the defense or charitable organizations to pick up your contributions or dispose of them directly and apply the resulting money to some useful purpose. DEFENSE AGENCY PARTICIPATION—Enlist as a unit in the defense effort of your locality. Contact your local Defense Council, Red Cross, Boy Scouts of America, College authorities for assignments.

The commands of fraternity membership are as imperative as its privileges and opportunities are wide and generous. Its compulsion is upon us—NOW.

SCROLL PRESENTED TO WILLIAM L. PHILLIPS

Phillips Given Scroll by Secretaries' Association

HISTORY was made at the 33rd annual session of the National Interfraternity Conference, November 27-29, when members of the National Panhellenic Congress participating in a joint discussion of affairs concerning Greek-letter organizations, were among the more than two thousand persons at a dinner, the most representative gathering of college Greeks ever held, and also shared the annual dinner of the College Fraternity Editors Association. Delegates of the 59 national fraternities which make up the National Interfraternity Conference and the 21 sororities which comprise the National Panhellenic Congress also carried on separate sessions, which were largely concerned with problems resulting from the defense emergency.

At the conference sessions Sigma Phi Epsilon was represented by Grand President Rodney C. Berry; Grand Secretary William L. Phillips, who served as chairman of the committee on credentials; Executive Secretary Herb Heilig; District Governor Robert W. Kelly; and JOURNAL Editor F. James Barnes, II, who served as Chairman of the Editors' Association Nominating Committee.

Eighteen Sig Eps attended the Conference Dinner held at the Hotel Commodore on Friday night at which more than two-thousand diners representing not only every fraternity and sorority, but hundreds of educational institutions in the United States and Canada, were present. These Sig Eps were: F. J. Barnes, Virginia Delta; R. C. Berry, Virginia Eta; Peter Bidwell, New York Gamma; Sandy Carlton, Pennsylvania Eta; Don B. Clark, Pennsylvania Mu; Harry T. Emmons, Vermont Beta; Herb Heilig, Wisconsin Alpha; W. F. Heinmann, New Jersey Alpha; Gibson Kelly, New York Gamma; Robert W. Kelly, New York Gamma; H. G. Kalbe, New York Alpha; W. F. Kalbe, New York Alpha; Bill Lindsey, Pennsylvania Delta; E. J. Morris, Pennsylvania Eta; W. L. Phillips, Virginia Alpha; W. L. Schumate, Missouri Alpha; James Stomber, New York Gamma; and Hugh Thompson, Iowa Beta.

Grand Secretary Phillips was honored both by the Conference and by the Secretaries' Association. Said Chairman L. G.

Balfour in his presidential address: "I wish to call your attention to the announced retirement of William L. Phillips, as Executive Secretary of Sigma Phi Epsilon. He was one of its Founders in 1901, and for forty years he has devoted himself to its interests. He has been governed by high fraternity ideals and his influence has been exerted in behalf of wholesome fraternity life. I am sure that I voice the sentiment of this Conference when I wish him Godspeed and thank him, in the name of us all, for what he has done to dignify the American college fraternity."

And in behalf of the College Fraternity Secretaries' Association Grand Secretary Phillips received a handsome testimonial scroll from Cecil J. Wilkinson, Executive Secretary of Phi Gamma Delta and Past Chairman of the Conference. Said Mr. Wilkinson in presenting the scroll: "Mr. Chairman, I hold in my hand a parchment which has been signed by thirty-five members of the curious craft known as Fraternity Secretaries. It reads as follows:

"The College Fraternity Secretaries' Association, in recognition of excelling leadership and devoted interfraternity service, presents this token to William L. Phillips, a founder of Sigma Phi Epsilon in 1901, co-author of its ritual; Grand Secretary from 1908 to the present date; Editor of its JOURNAL for twelve years; a founder of the National Interfraternity Conference in 1909 and faithful attendant at each annual plenary session since then; former member of the Executive Committee; Vice-Chairman of the Conference in 1928 and 1929; capable chairman of its various Committees; a founder of The College Fraternity Secretaries' Association and Chairman of that group in 1939-40. He has ornamented our craft."

Notes on the Conference

OUTSTANDING on the week-end programs was the dinner held at the Hotel Commodore Friday night. The main and subsidiary ballrooms, as well as the balcony of the main ballroom, were filled with diners representing not only every college fraternity and sorority, but hundreds of educational institutions of this country and Canada, when to the martial music of a drum and fife corps from Cornell University cadets marched in bearing the flags of the United States and Canada and those of the National Interfraternity Conference and the National Panhellenic Congress.

Lowell Thomas, Kappa Sigma, again proved that a news commentator can be an excellent toastmaster. Besides the speakers, he introduced Wendell Willkie, Beta Theta Pi, guest speaker at the 1940 dinner.

"We are to seek," said the first speaker, John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, "and to get powerful inspiration and creative living in our colleges; and we are to have fraternities that will pick up that intent and hold it and carry it to its top expression." That was his expressed hope for the future of education.

In presenting "The Faith of Our Fathers," H. W. Prentis, Jr., president of the Armstrong Cork Company and chairman of the board, National Association of Manufacturers, declared that direct nomination and election of United States senators, the initiative, the referendum, and other present trends of government tend to create a government of the current majority, a government of men, not of laws, the very antithesis of that contemplated by the faith to which the founding fathers subscribed. He urged the importance of self-help and the danger of public subsidies and said that the schools must again take delight in teaching, even indoctrinating, the old-fashioned patriotism, sacrifice, and civic virtue of national heroes.

In discussing "Fraternities and Defense," Lynn Stambaugh, national commander of the American Legion, asserted that fraternity men, because they often are in positions of leadership had a special responsibility to assist in the national emergency. He was emphatic in his statement that this nation is definitely in the war and that people should realize that fact and function accordingly. He called upon fraternity men to do their part in making defense efforts effective.

The right to develop individual lives is the thing the United States will defend, according to Dr. Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California, in speaking to "The Topic of the Hour." As a symbol of that right, he cited the university, and declared that people, young and old, the universities, and the fraternities must reconsecrate themselves to ideals of the founders.

Judge William R. Bayes, Phi Delta Theta, presented the awards, bestowing the medal for distinguished service to the cause of fraternities upon H. Maurice Darling, a New York City lawyer, who is a former national president of Delta Kappa Epsilon and a past chairman of the National Interfraternity Conference.

Judged the most outstanding in the country, the Interfraternity Council of Michigan State College became the first recipient of the National Interfraternity Conference Trophy.

Handsome programs, tied with the national colors and bearing engravings of all the fraternity and sorority badges, were at each diner's plate. They were illustrated with full page cartoons by such top-flight cartoonists as John T. McCutcheon, Fontaine Fox, Cargill, Tom Sanders, Jr., and Alexander.

But the real challenge to the men and women of the fraternity world came not from the dinner speakers, but from Dean Alice Lloyd of the University of Michigan, who addressed the joint session of the National Interfraternity Conference and the National Panhellenic Congress Friday afternoon. Speaking on "A New Defense Psychology," she recalled the threat to the morale of youth which followed World War I and warned that today young people are already calling themselves "a lost generation," that they are made shaky by a sense of economic, social, moral, and religious insecurity. She emphasized the fact that a fine morale, a strong defense psychology, cannot be built out of muddled, confused thinking on vital issues, self-pity, dishonesty, a lax moral code, and a feeble philosophy of life.

* * *

Other speakers on the joint program, presided over by Dr. Alvan E. Duerr, Delta Tau Delta, included Mrs. John Moore, Theta Upsilon, president of the National Panhellenic Congress; Orville S. Poland, assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau; Clara Pierce, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Mary Bake, Delta Delta Delta, and Eleanor Harris, Alpha Delta Pi, who discussed financial problems; Margaret Banta, Kappa Alpha Theta, who reviewed the philanthropies of the sororities; Mary C. Love Collins, Chi Omega, who discussed, "What We Will Defend and How"; and H. Roe Bartle, president of Alpha Phi Omega, scout organization, who answered the question, "Have We the Courage to Keep Faith?"

* * *

L. G. Balfour, Sigma Chi, chairman of the National Interfraternity Conference, in his address Friday forenoon that opened the two-day program charged the delegates and national officers with the task of making the college fraternity the most constructive force in the social and moral development of the undergraduate.

* * *

"Despite Hitler and high water—and some hysteria, the Greek-letter organizations are doing business as usual," reported the War Committee through its chairman, Cecil J. Wilkinson, Phi Gamma Delta. He stated that, while the number of initiated men returning this fall to the campuses is slightly less than the comparable opening months a year ago, the number of men pledged is higher, reflecting the more prosperous business conditions.

MARK WILKINS RESIGNS FRATERNITY POST

*Is Now Special Agent
in F. B. I.*

MARK WILKINS

MARK WILKINS is a square shooter. He is a hard worker. He is resourceful. He is efficient. He is courageous. He is loyal. Ten years of service to Sigma Phi Epsilon bear testimony to each one of these traits.

For the reason that Mr. J. Edgar Hoover's F.B.I. has been built up of men with these very qualities, it is not surprising that Mark should have received the call and that he is now to be addressed as Special Agent, Federal Bureau of Investigation, U. S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C., rather than as Assistant to the Grand Secretary, Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, Richmond, Va.

Mark is a product of Oklahoma A. and M. (Okla. Alpha) where he served his chapter as marshal, pledge supervisor, secretary, and comptroller; participated in football and wrestling, and was a member of Ruf-Nex, campus pep organization.

He entered the service of the fraternity in 1931 serving successively as: Special Central Office Representative (June, 1931—August, 1932), Traveling Secretary (September, 1932—August, 1934), Assistant to the Grand Secretary (Surveys) (September, 1934—December, 1936), and Assistant to the Grand Secretary (Office) (January, 1937—January, 1942).

The fraternity's indebtedness to Mark and its appreciation of his efforts in its behalf find eloquent expression in the letter of Grand President Rodney C. Berry announcing his resignation to the Executive Committee. Wrote the Grand President:

"During the ten years that Mark has served Sigma Phi Epsilon, I have had an opportunity to observe his work from close range and I realize fully the valuable contributions that he has made. Mark has been a quiet worker, and he will be sorely missed, both in the Central Office and in the field. I am sure that Mark's modest way of going about his work has caused many to underestimate the extent and value of his contributions to Sigma Phi Epsilon.

"In addition to his full share of traveling, Mark has handled most creditably many duties in the Central Office. He has not worked by the clock, usually being the last one to leave the office when I have been around. As all correspondence of the Central Office goes out over the Grand Secretary's name, the work that Mark does is not generally known even by members of the Executive Committee.

"For that reason I want to mention some of his contributions, and in doing so, to pay honor to his labor.

"In 1932 Mark conceived and compiled the original edition of our Manual. In 1940, in collaboration with Brother John Robson (Wis. Alpha), the revised edition was issued.

"In 1933, at Brother C. H. Freeark's (Ill. Alpha) suggestion, Mark developed and organized the first Group Meetings. These were the forerunners of the present District Conventions.

In 1933, again collaborating with Brother Freeark, Mark revised the Ritual.

"In 1935 and 1936, the Executive Committee assigned Mark to a Survey of the Chapters. This report was most valuable to the committee. During this same period the District Governor System was suggested by Brother Wilkins and adopted by the Fraternity. The Executive Committee assigned Mark to the job of organizing and supervising this system. You are all familiar with the results accomplished by the District Governor System and the District Conventions which grew out of this work.

"In 1938 the T.U.O. Merger was accepted. Grand Secretary Phillips assigned to Mark the job of completing the merger.

"In 1939, the revision of the Charter and Laws, upon which Mark Wilkins and Earl Frost labored so long and faithfully, was accomplished.

"As Chairman of the Ritual Committee, authorized by the last Conclave, Mark has carried the load. The revised Ritual, which is about ready to go to press, represents hundreds of hours of work, much of which was done away from the office.

"Mark loved the Fraternity and gave everything he had to it. He understood boys and the boys loved him. I haven't space to mention his valuable work done in the chapters and among the alumni, however, not one criticism from an active man has ever come to my attention.

"It is most unfortunate that the Fraternity has to lose such a valuable man at such a critical period. It is with reluctance, therefore, that Mark's resignation is accepted and I am sure that the good wishes of every member of the Executive Committee will go with him in his new work."

Fraternally yours,
RODNEY C. BERRY

The words are those of the Grand President. The sentiments expressed are those of the entire fraternity.

Koontz and Frost Share Places on K.C. Ticket

FORMER GRAND PRESIDENT Paul G. Koontz, University of Missouri, '18 (Mo. Alpha), is a Democrat. Grand Marshal Earle W. Frost, Kansas State, '20 (Kan. Beta), is a Republican. As a result of their common zeal for good government they are running together on the Kansas City Citizens' Party Ticket—the one for the position of Councilman at Large; the other for continuation in the position of Municipal Judge.

There follows the briefs of their qualifications as presented by the Citizens Sun, official publication of the Citizens' Party:

EARLE W. FROST (Republican)

Earle W. Frost was born in Blue Rapids, Kansas, July 17, 1899. He was graduated from Blue Rapids high school in 1916 and was class valedictorian. He received his B.S. from Kansas State in 1920, and in 1923 an LL.B. from the School of Law, Columbia University.

Earle Frost was not "born with a silver spoon in his mouth." He came up the hard way, holding a tuition scholarship while working his way through Law School.

Since 1923, Judge Frost has been a resident of Kansas City. He was associated in the practice of law with William E. Byers from 1923 to 1926 and was Assistant Prosecuting Attorney for Jackson County in 1926. Since December, 1934, he has been active in the firm of Meredith & Harwood.

Judge Frost was president of the Cosmopolitan International Club of Kansas City in 1941 and is now Judge Advocate of the Cosmopolitan International Club. He is an active worker in the Country Club Methodist Church, and is recognized by the National Safety Congress as a traffic expert. He has lived at 235 East 72nd Terrace since 1931 with his wife, Esther, and two children, Earle W. Frost, Jr., 9 and Sylvia Elaine, 5.

Our municipal courts must continue to do the job they have done during the past two years. Let's KEEP Earle W. Frost in office!

PAUL G. KOONTZ (Democrat)

One of the fighting Kansas Citizens who helped strike the first blow against the machine by obtaining a fair, unpadding ballot for Kansas City, was Paul G. Koontz, a member of the election commission from 1939 to 1941.

Paul G. Koontz was born in Seymour, Iowa, in 1894, and obtained A.B. and LL.B. degrees from the University of Missouri.

In 1917 he left school to enlist in the army and became a lieutenant in the Field Artillery.

In 1922 Mr. Koontz came to Kansas City and entered the practice of law. Today he is a member of the widely respected law firm of Warrick, Koontz & Hazard.

He is a member of the American Legion and Past Commander of Sanford Brown Post, and the 40&8 Club. His other affiliations include the University Club, Country Club Christian Church, where he is serving on the official board, the Exchange Club, Kansas City Bar Association, Kansas City Lawyers Association, Missouri Bar Association and the American Bar Association. He is vice-president of the Board of Regents of Warrensburg State Teachers College.

Paul Koontz and his wife, the former Mildred McBride of Marshall, Missouri, live at 800 West 60th Terrace. They have three children whose names are Rosalie Ann, Jean, and Paul, Jr.

SIG EP CHAPTERS PARTICIPATE IN CAMPUS DEFENSE ACTIVITIES

SIG EP chapters report full cooperation with local Defense Councils. Typical are the reports from the University of Pennsylvania (Pa. Delta), George Washington (D. of C. Alpha), University of Richmond (Va. Alpha), and Duke University (N.C.) Gamma.

Pa. Delta Has an Air Raid Warden

At Pa. Delta Raymond C. McCan, '43, has been appointed chief Air Raid Warden for the house by the University Council for Defense. His function is to safeguard Sig Ep lives and property in the event of an air raid. The house has taken all precautions against this contingency by placing buckets of sand in strategic places, taking group instruction in first aid and making the house light proof for possible black outs.

Basement of D.C. Alpha House Is "Refuge"

D. of C. Alpha is collaborating with the defense program of the Radnor Heights Citizens Association. The basement of the house has been designated as an air raid shelter "refuge room." All windows of the room have been blacked out and the necessary furnishings to insure it as a safe and comfortable place of haven in the event of an air raid on the nation's capitol have been installed.

Sig Eps' Mother Chapter Invests $3,000 in Defense Bonds

Three thousand dollars from the building fund of the University of Richmond (Va. Alpha) were recently invested in Defense Bonds, according to a statement of Alumni Treasurer Charles W. Dickenson.

This announcement came on the heels of a statement from Dr. F. W. Boatright, president of the University, urging "every student and every member to purchase as many defense bonds and stamps as possible."

The president was outspoken in his praise of the action taken by Sigma Phi Epsilon and suggested that other campus fraternal organizations "might well follow this example."

"We've got boys in all the armed forces," said Ralph Kinsey, chapter president, in commenting on Sigma Phi Epsilon's action, "and many other brothers are making ready to enlist. We thought we might do this bit to help the cause along before we enter active service."

N.C. Gamma Joins Other Duke Fraternities in Rush Week Cost Cut

North Carolina Gamma (Duke) in a move which is at once intelligent and patriotic has joined other Duke Greek letter organizations in cutting rush week expenses to a minimum of fifty dollars.

"The plan is designed," according to the N.C.G. SPECIAL, to keep fraternities in the black by saving cash for future necessities."

The publication continues: "Sig Ep as well as all the other fraternities on the campus, accepted this move willingly in view of the drastic conditions to be expected for fraternal groups in the near future. . . . The proposal, therefore, was hailed as a necessary action and a desirable one. . . . More moves of this sort, such as the elimination of all fraternity Spring dances, will probably be adopted," it was stated.

QUALLS RESIGNS As Grand Historian

GRAND HISTORIAN Herbert Qualls, University of Tennessee (Tenn. Alpha), who was recently promoted to the rank of Major, and is currently serving as Executive Officer, 17th Armored Engineers Battalion, engineer component of the famed "Hell on Wheels" Second Armored Division, has found it necessary to resign the post of Grand Historian of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

As is customary in Sigma Phi Epsilon, each of the remaining officers will be advanced one position and the resulting vacancy in the Junior Grand Marshalship will be filled by appointment by the Grand President.

Grand Historian Qualls' service as a Grand Officer has been characterized by vision and by courage. His resignation cannot, therefore, be viewed as other than a major catastrophe to the fraternity at this time.

The entire fraternity will join in Grand President Berry's insistence that the acceptance of his resignation is to be viewed as a "leave of absence," and that the fraternity will expect him to return to its service when the war shall have been won.

Appearing with Major Qualls in the accompanying photograph are (L. to R.) 1st Lieutenant Phillip Manger, University of Maryland (Md. Alpha), commanding officer, Company D; and Corporal Angus L. Craig, Jr., University of Minnesota (Minn. Alpha), Battalion Headquarters' Clerk.

Sig Ep Generals to be Featured in May JOURNAL

Sigma Phi Epsilon's two generals—Brigadier General Leonard T. Gerow and Brigadier General Paul X. English will be featured in the May JOURNAL.

Both General Gerow and General English are graduates of the Virginia Military Institute where they were members of the short-lived Virginia Theta Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

WILLIAM A. HANLEY, Purdue (Ind. Alpha)
President, American Society of Mechanical Engineers

AMERICA MUST DECIDE

BY WILLIAM A. HANLEY

WE ARE now concerned largely with the winning of the war and this will be our foremost task until victory has been achieved. Our first responsibility in this world catastrophe is to our government. We therefore unequivocally pledge that with loyalty and patriotism members of the engineering profession will give unstintingly of their time, their talents, and their labors, until the pledges of our government have been carried out and peace is restored on earth.

Although the war is our immediate problem we should begin to think about our situation when the war will be over, and as far as possible, we should plan for those uncertain days ahead. We should do some realistic thinking and some definite planning.

We do not know when the war will be over or what conditions may exist at that time. Our situation will not be what it was at the close of the World War. All the world, including ourselves, will be much poorer.

An address delivered at the Annual Meeting, New York, N.Y., December 1-5, 1941, of The American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

When we entered the last war our federal debt was less than two billion dollars, and our government had lived within its income for many more years previous to that war. When the World War was over our federal debt was twenty-six or twenty-seven billion dollars, and in the following ten years we reduced this debt to sixteen billion dollars. We are going into this war with a federal debt of fifty billion dollars; we will emerge from the war with the debt of possibly one hundred billions or more. We have not lived within our income for ten years. It has been truthfully said that "dictators are the receivers of bankrupt republics," and we want neither bankruptcy nor a dictator.

Although the lease-lend program has my unqualified approval, it is my opinion that we shall get back little, if any, money or materials in repayment. We must realize that England went to war with a debt of nearly one thousand dollars per capita and has been spending upward of fifty million dollars per day. France, Holland, Belgium, Poland, Germany, Italy, Spain, China, and Japan will be desperately poor at the close of the war, and probably through necessity, will be seeking financial help for many years thereafter. This is the picture we must face. If the World War I produced a crop of communists, socialists, and people clamoring for a change of government, what may we expect after World War II when the world had not recovered from the effects of World War I. Crowned heads dropped and governments changed rapidly as a result of the last war. It will be true again after this war. We must be prepared for terrific social changes in Europe, and we must realize that we are not immune to such influences in our own United States. It could happen here. It may happen here.

If we in the United States are prepared for the trials ahead and if we are united in our efforts, we can undoubtedly weather the storm and come out less damaged than if we neglect the danger signals. We can either, as a united people, lead the world by example through this dangerous period, or we can wallow in the trough of the sea, without chart or compass, to be buffeted by the winds of political and social conflict and finally wrecked on the shoals of internal strife.

The National Resources Planning Board estimates that in 1944, if we are still at war, we shall have twenty-three million workers on defense projects and three and one-half million men under arms. This means that of fifty-five million workers in the United States, nearly half of them will be on defense or wartime effort. The colossal undertaking of putting these workers back into peacetime employment when this emergency is over is our great task.

This problem should not be underestimated in scope or in the time required to bring about the change. The job looks bigger than first appraised when it is remembered that never were there less than eight million unemployed between 1930 and 1940, when pump priming and government peace spending reached all-time highs. After the war there are two ways for our people to obtain jobs. One is in private industry and the other is to work for the government. We must decide from which of these two ways these jobs are to be created. Do we want a government, loaded with debt because of prewar and war expenditures, to have fifteen or twenty million workers on W.P.A. jobs and in C.C.C. camps? If that is our idea of postwar jobs for our people then we had better send some observers to Europe for we shall surely find ourselves following down that path which led to Fascism. The alternative is to prepare now to create jobs in private industry, and to plan to reduce government employees to a bare necessary number. If all the men and women in America will become interested in this post-war employment and will individually adopt a policy to help in the solution, we can solve the problem and America can thrive as she did thrive from 1790 to 1930. The solution lies with individuals to a greater degree than it does with corporations, municipalities, or other groups. As individuals, as corporations, as cities and states, and as a nation we should reduce our peacetime expenditures now, so that we can accumulate money to spend, and then spend it when the war is over. Accumulate needs and money now. Satisfy those needs and spend the money when the war ceases. If we could have ten million orders for new automobiles in the first two years after the war, it would be very helpful. If the majority of car owners will drive their cars twenty-four months longer than has been their custom, then we shall have the ten million orders for automobiles. As a patriotic duty, to save this nation at home, to save our form of life for ourselves and our children, to avoid Fascism, we should not only have this demand for ten million new automobiles but for great quantities of goods and commodities which must be produced by labor. We should accumulate the need for clothing, home furnishings, and new equipment for homes, and in addition accumulate the need for several million new homes. Millions of men can go to work on these jobs alone, if this backlog is provided. There may be some personal inconvenience in such a program of waiting, but surely the sacrifices will be greatly repaid in helping create a staple economic condition in America. In the same way the commercial organizations should have an accumulation of man-hour projects which have been postponed until the war is over and then should carry forward such projects fearlessly to assist the job program. The town and city should, where possible, postpone the paving of streets, building of bridges, municipal buildings, extension of utility services, and the like. In like manner the respective states might well postpone as far as possible the paving of roads and repairs and additions to state institutions. The churches, schools, hospitals, and nonprofit corporations can all contribute to this great effort of accumulation, and if we will all do our part, the W.P.A. and the C.C.C. can pass into history.

During World War I several million women were absorbed into industry. Most of these women returned to their homes after the war to take up their duties as homemakers. More than one million, however, never gave up their jobs; and it was one of the contributing factors to the great depression that these women were filling jobs which might have gone to men. This error should not be repeated. Where there is a man in the family he should be the breadwinner and his wife should be what she has always wanted to be, the homemaker. His income should be sufficient to support his family without his wife's working.

LET PRIVATE INDUSTRY PROVIDE JOBS

There are now, and will continue to be, powerful groups who feel the government should extend its field of employment and that private industry should shrink accordingly. In times of war there is no other practical scheme, but in times of peace governmental employment, except in vital functions and in great emergencies, should be tolerated only as visioned by the founders of this Republic. Whether this nation or any nation can long survive with half the workers on governmental pay rolls and the other half in private enterprises has yet to be demonstrated. Because of the demands of the war and in preparation for the job situation at the close of the war, the federal government should as rapidly as possible cease its efforts except in defense and in vital governmental functions. If there should ever be a Florida ship canal or a St. Lawrence waterway development they should only come when they are proved necessary for national defense or can be justified as a good business venture, and once all our workers are employed every governmental undertaking should be subjected to this searching scrutiny. Let the jobs for the postwar period be created by someone other than the federal government and then the government can be relieved of this responsibility. Many federal boards, commissions, bureaus, and agencies will hang on attempting to enlarge their fields and their influence and will organize blocks of voters who will pursue certain selfish objectives. These must be recognized and dealt with on the basis of the public interest. If individual enterprise will supply the jobs for our workers, and the federal pay checks will become less and less, then our people will more carefully, and with more independence, evaluate every governmental service paid for by the taxpayers. When the people are concerned more with the expenditures of their government and less with what they can personally or in groups siphon out of the public treasury, we shall again have reached a high degree of public responsibility. If we will produce the jobs for our people and will get them off the governmental pay rolls, we shall have the key to the situation for maintaining the system of private enterprise.

The federal government will have problems aplenty even though private enterprise employs all the workers. World stability alone will take the most patient and careful planning after a war-torn and bleeding world has laid down its arms. Let us then save our government from an internal struggle that would only add more difficulties. The war itself will create a lot of new problems in America and these must be reckoned with. In the first World War we had four million men in uniform. We have many of these men incapacitated today. We face an eventual pension for many of these four million men. We had a soldier's bonus. Shall we have three or four million more after this war to add to the previous millions for whom we may be obliged to provide pensions and bonuses? Our soldiers should and will receive consideration for the great sacrifice they will be called upon to make.

Shall we continue to subsidize agriculture to the extent of one billion four hundred million dollars as we are doing in this fiscal year. This is a new subsidy created almost entirely since World War I.

Shall we continue to pay seventy cents an ounce for newly mined silver as a subsidy to a half dozen of our Western states, when the world price of silver is thirty-five cents an ounce?

Can we run on an unbalanced budget forever without going bankrupt?

Will nine million people in labor unions, paying into these unions an estimated two hundred and fifty million dollars per year, accept the regulation and group responsibilities as have other powerful economic groups, such as the insurance companies, the banks, the railroads, and the stock exchanges? Will the labor unions resist the open accounting and corporate legal responsibility which must always be accepted by those having great financial, economic, or political power?

There are large numbers of workers in certain industries who would like to see the government take over such industries now and the workers become permanent government employees. These and many other problems confront our government and the manner in which we shall solve these problems will largely determine our future way of life. Every war causes certain reactions and one of the reactions of the last war was the creation of a philosophy that government could and should solve every single problem with which individual citizens may be confronted. All over the world self-reliance has been largely discarded. Thrift and economy and such virtues, which were so advocated in the three hundred glorious years following the Pilgrims' landing in 1620, have not been accentuated in this country for a generation. We must re-examine and reinstate the philosophy which achieved our success in the past. The hope to continue a high standard of living for our people can be supported only by a firm determination to have greater production of goods, at continually decreasing prices and this means individual enterprise and work and a self-supporting population. How the employment situation is handled at the close of this war will greatly determine whether the government is to be the employer of most of the workers in the future, or whether individual enterprise will carry on. Shall we have regimentation or liberty? If it is regimentation and if the government largely prescribes our way of living, then representative government will not be long in passing.

LET US MEASURE UP TO OUR RESPONSIBILITIES

We can do our part, beginning right now, to create our individual list of wants, which we will postpone until the close of the war. Let us measure up to our responsibilities in not only winning the war but in winning the peace, and in so doing continue that way of life for ourselves and our children as we received it from our parents and from those who, through great sacrifices, created it for us. This country has gone through many crises; surely in this one, when we have the stewardship, we shall not fail. We want the historians of the future to write that representative government and individual enterprise produced the highest standard of living in the United States ever before attained in all time. We do not want those historians to record that representative government and individual enterprise failed under the strain of two world wars in one generation and, as a consequence, are only a memory in the history of mankind. Men have died and today are dying for these causes. Surely we will fight with all our strength to preserve them in these United States. Let us prepare now for this employment situation with a program that will lead America to a sound, enduring, economic freedom and not follow an unknown and uncharted path where the winds of destiny may destroy us.—Reprinted from Mechanical Engineering for January, 1942.

Virginia's Second in Command Ready

an auspicious beginning, and since that time he has campaigned from one end of the State to the other in behalf of Democratic nominees. His maiden speech on the floor of the House of Delegates, however, was during Senator Harry Byrd's first year as Governor of Virginia. In his inaugural address, Governor Byrd, among other things, advocated that all law enforcement officers be required to wear uniforms or badges. Although his other recommendations were passed, this was defeated on the floor of the House. Tuck, however, rose to his feet to make a motion to reconsider the question and proceeded to make the members of the House see the bill in a different light. They did, and the bill was passed.

Tuck was prominent in the support of all of the reform measures adopted during the administration of Governor Byrd. He has supported actively old-age pension, unemployment insurance, slum clearance, roads, jail and prison reform, and has been especially interested in all the problems of the farmer. In the latter's behalf, he successfully introduced a bill establishing a little AAA after the Supreme Court vetoed the first AAA, and for all other farm measures he has gone to bat.

The cigar, which is his constant companion, might even be for publicity purposes—so interested is he in tobacco and its problems, and coming as he does from South Boston, that "little city of the largest tobacco market" when the bright leaf tobacco is lord of the land and only once a year is a queen allowed. He raises and sells it himself, as did his father before him.

The Lieutenant-Governor-elect admits that his interest in education dates back to the day when, at the age of seven, he first trudged off to the one-room schoolhouse, a long, cold mile from home, and discovered the teacher to be young and pretty. Then and there he fell in love with "teacher," and his interest in education just naturally flourished, and even carried him to such a point that he decided to be a teacher himself, and was for a year. He gave up that job, but always has kept his interest.

Learned Early About Stumps

He was extremely active in securing the appropriation by which the State Park System was begun in 1933. With a pull on the cigar and a deep chuckle, he will tell what it was that awakened his interest in landscaping. At 15, he was sent off to Chatham Baptist Training School, now known as the Hargrave Military Academy. Life was sweet, and he was full of it, and no matter how hard he tried he couldn't seem to keep out of some kind of trouble, no matter how innocent. Trouble meant demerits, and demerits meant digging up tree stumps, with which the land around the school abounded. This was a grand way to work off excess steam. Young Tuck dug and dug until he finally worked up an interest in the work, and especially the results. He has been after results along this line ever since. The school's headmaster at that time was Dr. T. Ryland Sanford, noted Baptist minister. On next January 21 Dr. Sanford will deliver the opening prayer at the inaugural ceremonies at the Capitol when the stump digger takes his oath of office.

Mr. Tuck was the first man to advocate the enlargement of the Highway Commission. This bill has been proposed at frequent intervals since 1924, but has never succeeded in passing both branches of the Legislature. It is slated to be presented again in 1942 and, this time, unless all signs fail, it will pass.

Another William Munford Tuck—farmer and Confederate soldier, captain of Company "K," Third Virginia Infantry, Longstreet's Corps, and Pickett's Division—led a thinning line of tattered men. He was wounded at Fredericksburg, captured at Gettysburg and held prisoner in Pennsylvania until after the surrender at Appomattox. He returned home, nothing daunted, to take up his life where he had dropped it to answer the call to arms.

That William Tuck's grandson dropped what he was doing on a hot June day in 1918, rode into Richmond and, at the first recruiting station he came to (it happened to be at Seventh and Broad Streets), signed up with Uncle Sam's Marines. Just to "get in it" was all he wanted, and the next thing he knew he was off to Paris Island and five months of intensive training. Bronzed and toughened, he was ready for anything when orders came to "march." Their destination unknown, but sure it would be across the ocean, the hearts of this group of Marines sank upon boarding ship at Charleston and discovering it was headed for Santo Domingo. Quelling the uprising of bandits in the Santo Domingo hills was no fun, especially with the heat playing tricks. It was a job, though, for Uncle Sam's Marines and, like it or not, they did it.

The war over, Bill Tuck sailed for home. He was discharged, and September of 1919 found him enrolled in the law school of Washington and Lee and hard at work.

Long Identified with Halifax

The youngest of four brothers and next to the youngest in a family of eight, Bill Tuck was born on September 28, 1896, in the white, clapboard home built by his great-grandfather, 18 miles from the county seat of Halifax. Both sides of his family for generations had been natives of Halifax County.

His early education was at the one-room schoolhouse where 40 students all struggled together in the pursuit of knowledge. At 15, he went for one year to the Virgilina High School, then off to boarding school for a year at the Chatham Training School. Next came William and Mary College, where he admits he tried as hard to make the football team as he did to acquire a teacher's diploma. By cramming potatoes to gain enough weight to play on the team and cramming history and English for a diploma, he managed to make both. He played on the scrub team two years and the college team two, won his letter in track. With a teacher's diploma, but with funds getting low, he departed in 1917 to find a job as teacher. The following year he served as principal of the Fairfields High School in Northumberland County. Here, he was just about buried in the country, but the war news got through and there he was through with the job and off to join the Marines.

The war over, he decided to become a lawyer and won his LL.B. at Washington and Lee in 1921. He first practiced law with the late John Martin, whose brother, William W. Martin, is now an assistant attorney-general of the State. His law firm today is Tuck & Mitchell, his partner being G. E. Mitchell, Jr.

From 1928 to 1931, Mr. Tuck was chairman of the Halifax County Democratic Executive Committee. He was an alternate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention at Chicago in 1932, was presidential elector-at-large in 1936 and was a Democratic elector from the Fifth Congressional District in the presidential election of 1940.

The job he won which most surprised Bill Tuck was when Mrs. Eva Lovelace Dillard, whom he had been courting for several long years, said "yes." He was home over Sunday from the Legislature and, having no time for her to change her mind, he grabbed her by the hand and headed straight for the clerk's office and a license. The clerk was so surprised he gave him the license and his blessing. The very same day, Dr. C. W. Maxwell tied the knot.

The Tucks live in a white, clapboard house not far from the center of South Boston. Blue-eyed, vivacious Mrs. Tuck is an enthusiastic golfer, musician and gardener. She is such a good golfer, in fact, that Bill would rather take her on at table tennis, which is good for the figure and not so strenuous.

Mrs. Tuck is a Presbyterian and Mr. Tuck a Baptist. He is a charter member of the American Legion of Halifax, and is a member of the State and American Bar Associations. He has been vice-president twice of the State Bar. His fraternities are Sigma Phi Epsilon, Phi Delta Phi and the Delta Sigma Rho (forensic). He is a Mason and belongs to a long list of other organizations. Mrs. Tuck, among other things, belongs to both the D.A.R. and the Huguenot Society.

Mrs. Tuck's son, Lester Layne Dillard, is a graduate of Hampden-Sydney and is now a second year law student at W. and L.

Mr. Tuck is an enthusiastic fisherman and horseman, but his family, his politics, his profession and his farming leave little time for hobbies. He always has time, however, to fight for a friend or a principle.

When Mr. Tuck takes his oath as Lieutenant-Governor he will be the twenty-third man to serve in that capacity since 1852, when, for the first time, both the Governor and the Lieutenant-Governor were elected by the people. Prior to that, they were elected by members of the General Assembly. The first Lieutenant-Governor under the Constitution was no less a person than the distinguished John Page of Rosewell, Gloucester County, who heads the list of the eight Lieutenant-Governors under the Constitution who later became Governors.

The first speaker and president of the Senate in 1776 was the Honorable Archibald Cary, who was elected by his colleagues for 12 years and served all but a few months of these consecutively. In 1779, due to the illness of Mr. Cary, Nathaniel Harrison was elected to take his place.

When the offices of Lieutenant-Governor and speaker of the Senate were combined in 1852 and made an office elective by the people, the first man to serve was Shelton Leake.

Colgate Darden, Jr., becomes the sixtieth Governor under the Constitution but the twenty-fifth to be elected by the people.

To the lot of former Senator Tuck falls the job of keeping the Senate of Virginia in correct parliamentary order. He succeeds to the chair the venerable Henry Taylor Wickham of Hanover County. Senator Wickham began his legislative career in 1879 and has been president pro tem of the Senate twice, last serving in the 1940 session of the Legislature during the illness of the late Saxon W. Holt of Newport News.

The State government, beginning in 1942, is entrusted to Colgate W. Darden, Jr., and William Munford Tuck. Yes, the Marines have landed in Virginia and the situation is well in hand.

Annual Christmas Party Held At Memphis by Tennessee Sig Eps

The Sixth Annual Sig Ep Christmas Party was held Saturday night, December 27 in the Bamboo Room of the Hotel Claridge, Memphis, Tennessee. Thirty Sig Eps with guests attended the affair which has become the leading social function of the fraternity in West Tennessee.

This event was attended by brothers from as far away as Knoxville, with several more coming from Nashville, Chattanooga and Dresden. Two active chapters, Tennessee Alpha and Mississippi Beta, were well represented, with six actives from the Tennessee Chapter and a like number from Mississippi. Sorely missed were the fifteen Sig Eps from the Memphis area now in the armed forces who were unable to get leave to attend the party.

Speeches were refreshing as well as plentiful, with eight former chapter presidents taking the speaker's platform. Top story of the evening came from Mississippi Beta's Bill Johnson who told of the sign the State Sig Eps put in front of the house they had vacated. It read: "If you think this place is a wreck, you should see our Tokyo branch."

Among the Sig Eps attending were: Tennessee Alpha—Harold White, "Nick" Nicholson, Jennings Qualls, Cayce Pentecost, Maurice Roach, E. J. Lanigan, Harry Williams, Lloyd Moddy, John Eaton, Bill Peterson, Jack Haener, Don Sofer, Blair Hawkins, John Drane, Jack Haynes, David Harrison, Cleve Littlejohn, Ed Jester, Hayden Hoyle, Zeke Stanfield, John Brewer; Georgia Alpha—Bill Hulsey, '18; Alabama Beta—Benton Mallory; Mississippi Beta—Bill Johnson, Billy Arnold.

Guest of honor was Tennessee Alpha's sterling housemother, Mrs. Mary D. Norris.

The party was declared an outstanding success and will be held at approximately the same date in 1942 if any two Sig Eps are still left in the area to carry on.

Romig Installed As Minister of May Memorial Church, Syracuse

THE Reverend Robert E. Romig, University of Denver (Colo. Beta), '29, for the past five years minister of the First Unitarian Church of Duluth, Minn., was installed as Minister of the 103 year old May Memorial Unitarian Church of Syracuse, N.Y., on October 17, 1941.

Said the Syracuse Herald Journal in commenting on the Romig installation:

May Memorial Unitarian Church is a part of Syracuse's history, as well as of its present and future. Any change in its administration is of community-wide interest.

For that reason the installation of the Rev. Robert E. Romig as pastor is an event of more than passing note. Only five men have preceded him in this post in the 103 years since the church was organized.

Some of those years were stormy ones for the Nation when burning issues divided the country but always this church gave bold and conscientious leadership. As an exponent of liberal religious thought it has exerted a potent influence.

Good wishes will be with the Rev. Mr. Romig as he takes up the work to which Dr. Argow, Dr. Applebee, Dr. Calthrop, Dr. May and the Rev. John P. B. Storer gave such distinction.

Morrissey Reappointed U. S. District Attorney for Colorado

FOR THE THIRD consecutive time, Thomas J. Morrissey, University of Denver (Colo. Beta), '23, has been reappointed United States district attorney for Colorado by President Roosevelt.

Morrissey's appointment will be for four years. He was appointed originally in 1933 when President Roosevelt first took office, and has served two full four-year terms. His reappointment was supported by both Colorado senators, Alva B. Adams and Ed. C. Johnson.

Harry Tucker Co-Author of Highway Economics Text

HARRY TUCKER, North Carolina State (N.C. Beta), '10, is co-author (with Dr. Marc C. Leager) of a new book entitled Highway Economics.

The 454-page volume is the first book to deal in a complete manner with highway economics. It was published recently by the International Textbook Company of Scranton, Pa.

Author Tucker, a member of the North Carolina State Utilities Commission, is at present on leave of absence from his duties as head of the North Carolina State University division of highway engineering.

The book, according to the preface, was written both for the student of highway engineering and for other readers who may desire information on a wide variety of subjects pertaining to the economics of highways.

Joyce Massachusetts Rationing Administrator

Thomas M. Joyce, New York University (N.Y. Gamma), 28-year-old state administrator of the Massachusetts wartime rationing board, is big, burly and very bright—something like a combination of Demosthenes and Dempsey.

A peaceful person by nature, he is very sensitive about stories which stress his pugilistic prowess. He thinks they make him look like an untamed Tarzan, and he's afraid people will shy away from him when they meet him on the street.

He's no untamed Tarzan, by any flight of the imagination, but it is on the record that he earned his way through college by frequent appearances in the prize ring. And it is also on the record that one night in Lowell, where he was secretary of the taxpayers' association, a couple of brawny bruisers, who did not like the taxpayers' association, ganged up on him—much to their regret.

For a man not yet 30, Joyce has had a colorful career.

He was born in Pittsfield, where his father still lives, and he went to the local schools there. Then, with only $50 in his pocket, he set out for New York University, enrolled and began looking around for part-time work.

He picked up a few jobs here and there. One day he was asked if he would like to do a little boxing—for a fee. He said yes, stepped into the ring with very little specialized training and floored his opponent. It was an easy way to earn a living for a time, he decided, and so he went through college with a book in one hand and a boxing glove on the other.

But he didn't neglect the more polite pursuits. He was president of his class and his fraternity, a member of the student council, the debating society, the track team, and won the Alpha Kappa Psi scholarship award for all-around ability.

With a degree and lots of determination, Joyce came back to Massachusetts. At N.Y.U. he had studied accounting and taxation, so he went to work for the Lowell Taxpayers' Association. He was so successful that he was brought to Boston by the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations and in a short time was made assistant executive director and legislative agent of the statewide organization.

Joyce, and his boss, Norman MacDonald, executive director of the taxpayers federation, are among the top-flight lobbyists on Beacon Hill. Their particular objective is to keep government costs down to an adequate minimum.

Like MacDonald, the younger member of the taxpayers' team has a mathematical mind, can reel off columns of figures on state finances with amazing agility, and his knowledge of budgetary matters is encyclopedic.

Six feet, four inches tall, and weighing 212 pounds, Joyce makes an impressive appearance before legislative committees. His voice is vibrant and authoritative, but his technique is persuasive, never pugnacious. An angry question is met with a soothing answer. And there are few angry questions, because most of the legislators like him.

During the past four years, after a hard day's work at the State House and his office, Joyce attended the evening session at the Boston College

Law School and was graduated last June. He was unable to take the bar examination this summer, because of the pressure of his legislative duties, but he plans to take it this year.

Joyce is married and is the father of a little girl, three-and-a-half years old.

Officially, he is state administrator of the tire rationing board, headed by former Gov. Ely, but this board will also have jurisdiction over all other commodities which are placed on a rationing basis.

By Cornelius Dalton, in Boston Sunday Herald, Jan. 11, 1942.

A. G. Taylor Named Dean William and Mary Citizenship School

PRESIDENT John Stewart Bryan of the College of William and Mary has announced that Dr. Albion G. Taylor (Va. Delta), professor of political economy, has been named dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Government and Citizenship of the college.

Dr. Taylor has been a professor at William and Mary since 1928 and formerly served as assistant dean of the Marshall-Wythe School. He took his undergraduate work at Des Moines University and received the A.M. degree from the University of Nebraska and the Ph.D. from the University of Illinois.

He is the author of a number of articles and books on labor problems and a recent text, Labor Problems and Labor Law, is now in use in a number of colleges and universities.

DuMars Named To Federal Radio Job

M. L. DuMARS, Kansas State, '33 (Kan. Beta), has been appointed radio extension specialist for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. DuMars was radio extension editor in Manhattan from February, 1935, to August, 1936, when he resigned to accept a position with the United States Department of Agriculture. While at Manhattan DuMars had charge of the College radio station, KSAC, turned out radio script for 12 or 14 commercial stations in Kansas and handled some routine news releases for county agents and Kansas weekly newspapers.

Ted James, President and General Manager Rio Grande Motor Way, Inc.

TED L. JAMES, University of Nebraska (Neb. Alpha), '29, who worked his way through Nebraska by driving a bus, and earned recognition as "All-American" football center in 1928, took over the duties of President and General Manager of the Rio Grande Motor Way, Inc., in July. The Rio Grande operates fleets of luxury busses and trucks over scenic Colorado, New Mexico and Utah routes.

As his assistant President James has Ralph F. Berndt, University of Denver (Colo. Beta), '28, and Kenneth Charlesworth, Colorado State (Colo. Gamma), stepped into the James' vacated positions of General Manager of the Denver-Colorado Springs-Pueblo Motorway and Denver-Salt Lake-Pacific Stages, and Superintendent of the Denver and Interurban Motor Co. and Burlington Transportation Co.

James' appointment, announced by F. A. Peil, chairman of the board of Rio Grande Motorway, Inc., is the culmination of 11 years of motor transportation experience with major Colorado highway companies, mostly in executive posts. He succeeds L. E. Nickerson, resigned.

Following his graduation from Nebraska University with bachelor of science degree in 1929, James played professional football for a season with the Philadelphia Yellowjackets. In 1930 he was made director of physical education at Nebraska State Teachers College, serving until 1933 when he was appointed supervisor and terminal manager of the Denver-Colorado Springs-Pueblo Motorway at Pueblo. From 1936 to 1939 he was superintendent and Western Traffic Manager for the Burlington Transportation Co. at Los Angeles.

From 1939 until appointed to the Rio Grande Motorway post, James was general manager of the Denver-Colorado Springs-Pueblo Motorway and Denver-Salt Lake-Pacific Stages and was superintendent of the Denver and Interurban Motor Co. and Burlington Transportation Co. with headquarters at Denver.

The above twenty carved their niche next to Fred Wade, 1935 conclave director, when they sponsored the 5th annual Christmas formal dance held Dec. 20, 1941, and contributed ten dollars each so that it could be gratis to the actives and their prospective pledgee guests and to all brothers in the military service. Forty undergraduate guests attended.

The dance was a huge success under the management of Charles Stewart, dance chairman. One hundred couples gathered in the Salle Moderne Parlors of the Hotel Statler, danced to Paul Burton's orchestra, and enjoyed the champagne hour of floor show and entertainment furnished by the Arthur Murray studios. A special added feature was singing by members of the Ohio State glee club led by Brother George Myer.

At the founders' day banquet in November at Stouffer's Restaurant, besides enjoying a talk by Bob Kelley, sports announcer for WGAR and listening to advice by Raymond Krieger Ohio Gamma '22 income tax expert, time was taken out by Dr. Forsythe, toastmaster, to elect the following officers: Walter Baker, president; Bob Sommer, vice-president; Bob Bates, treasurer; and Nelson Carran, secretary.

NELSON CARRAN, Secretary

P.S. Nelson Carran was second in the dancing contest at the formal. Who won? Who cares!

NEW OFFICERS elected at our Jan. 8 meeting are as follows: Reed Schroder, of E. H. Schroder Insurance Agency, of Rock Island, Ill., President; Arthur Hoepner, Assistant Credit Manager of Gordon-Van Tine Co., Davenport, Iowa, Vice-President; Robert E. Lee, Attorney in Rock Island, Ill., Secretary-Treasurer.

The retiring officers who had been in office since the Association was organized three years ago last November are—Lyle Burroughs, Moline, Ill., President; Kermit Schroder, Rock Island, Ill., Vice-President; Cecil Ewen, Davenport, Secretary-Treasurer.

Willis Lathrop (Ore. Alpha '20) showed movies at our November meeting of a trip West and a prize movie of "motion" which he took. At our December meeting Taylor Drake showed colored slides of his trip at Lake Louise and Canada, this summer. Carl Gamble, General Manager of the John Deere Spreader Works, gave us a talk on astronomy at our January meeting.

Cecil Ewen, Robert E. Lee, Henry Dismer, Jr., Glen Baggerly, Jr., and Lyle Burroughs, drove to Clinton, Iowa, the last of November to the reorganization meeting of the Clinton Alumni Association. We wish them the best of luck.

John Sanberg has resigned his position with the International Harvester Co. to accept a government position in Panama. He sailed the last of November.

The Art Hubers are at Dallas, Texas, for the present as Art is Construction Engineer for the International Harvester Co. and is there supervising the construction of a new building.

Nolde, Like Father, Becomes Head of Potomac Bakers

J. Arthur Nolde, William and Mary, '30 (Va. Delta), head of the sale promotion department of the Nolde Bros. baking firm of Richmond, Va., was elected president of the Potomac States Bakers' Association at the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the organization in Baltimore, early in February. The association includes firms in Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Happiest person over the election of Nolde, who is 34, is his father, August Nolde, who was the first president of the Potomac States Bakers a quarter century ago. The elder Mr. Nolde played a prominent role in organizing the group at a meeting held in Richmond on Nov. 23, 1915. Mr. Nolde served until May, 1916, when the first annual convention of the organization was held.

Young Nolde, who now heads the widespread organization that his father founded, was graduated from the College of William and Mary in 1930.

at the John Wanamaker Stores in Philadelphia; and a graduate course in Production Management at the University of Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania Deltan Bob White bears a final significant testimonial when he writes:

"Bill is unique in that he has maintained every bit as much interest in fraternity since graduation as he had while in school. He has covered a great deal of territory in the last three years, but every few weeks his battered Ford convertible wheezes to a stop in front of the 'house,' and out steps Bill for another one of his visits. It was not at all unusual for Bill to drive a couple of hundred miles on one of his visits, and although three new classes have come into the fraternity since his graduation, he has made it a point to know every one of them. He has gone to both trouble and expense to retain his fraternity relationships, but he believes he has been paid dividends from the lasting friendships that result from his trips to the 'house.'"

Following are the ways the fraternities have been aiding the American defense program, Mr. Wilkinson reported: by arranging campus dances for men on leave, housing the men in fraternity homes; by offering meals and lodgings and a "date bureau" for lonely week-enders on leave; by inviting service men to especially planned "open houses" at fraternity homes; by obtaining for service men in co-operation with the college administration tickets for athletic events either without charge or at reduced rates; by contributing phonograph records to recreation centers; by presenting amateur theatricals, glee club programs, debates, and quiz programs at recreation centers.

National organizations have helped by reducing convention costs to service men, sending fraternity magazines without charge to members in uniform, giving advertising space without charge to defense projects, by requiring the American flag to be flown daily from all chapter houses, by encouraging the purchase of defense bonds and stamps, contributions to service organizations and Bundles for Britain, by arranging special affairs for the benefit of defense activities, such as the Defense Ball given recently in New York.

That college students have both the opportunity and the responsibility of being intelligent in regard to matter of sex was emphasized by Dr. Ira S. Wile, Theta Chi, in his report on sex hygiene, which accompanied a 34-page pamphlet that he had prepared for college students. This has been printed by the National Interfraternity Conference for distribution. The report was based on a survey made under the direction of the conference, which reveals the conflicting and changing ideas and ideals among college men regarding sexual habits and relations and such kindred subjects as petting.

Dr. Wile urged the college man "to seek the facts, study your ideas and ideals, arrive at a decision, and then assume full responsibility for the resultant actions." He insisted that too much emphasis had been placed upon the responsibility of the home and the school in regard to sex matters and not enough upon the individual.

* * *

The Committee on Inter-American Exchange of Students presented through its chairman, Dr. Charles A. Tonsor, Delta Sigma Phi, a statement of principles and plan for organization which called for the granting of tuition scholarships by colleges and universities to qualified students from Latin American countries for whom chapters in fraternities would furnish room and board. Each member fraternity of the N.I.C. is to be asked to accept one such student as a resident guest and to extend financial assistance to its local chapter that serves as host.

John M. MacGregor, Alpha Tau Omega, as chairman of the Law Committee, reported that college fraternities are exempt from federal taxes on dues and initiation fees and from the admission tax unless a special or separate charge is a condition of attendance. Fraternity badges and pledge buttons, as well as other jewelry, are subjected to the federal 10 per cent tax and to the "use" tax, a new name for sales tax, adopted by Arkansas, California, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, New York City, Michigan, Missouri, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Utah, and Washington.

Officers elected at the closing session of the 33rd annual session of the National Interfraternity Conference at the Hotel Commodore today are: Chairman, John M. MacGregor, Alpha Tau Omega, New York City; vice chairman, Hamilton W. Baker, Kappa Sigma, New York City; secretary, Leroy A. Wilson, Lambda Chi Alpha, New York City; treasurer, Maurice Jacobs, Phi Epsilon Pi, Philadelphia; educational adviser, Dean Joseph A. Bursley, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Sammy Gets a Gun!

in the outfield during his entire collegiate career. Most of his time was spent at shortstop, with an occasional fling at third base. But he preferred the outfield.

"I never was cut out for the infield," Sammy explains, "My throwing wasn't accurate enough."

We wouldn't know about that, never having seen him play the infield, but the records show he could whack the apple.

The records show, too, that Mr. Chapman did a bit of all right with the A's. In '38, he finished with a .269 average. In 1939, he hit .276. And last season he was one of the major league leaders with a handsome .325 mark.

Here's hoping he hits in the .400 class in the real big league he is impatiently waiting to enter.

THE HOOVER AND SMITH CO.

726 CHESTNUT ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

FEBRUARY, 1942—To you of Sigma Phi Epsilon, this means the 40th Anniversary of your Fraternity. To us, as your jeweler, it means our 40th year of continuous service to your members. We are proud that our efforts have merited the confidence and patronage of Sig Eps since the days of the Saturday Night Club. We continue to welcome the opportunity to illustrate in quality, service and workmanship why we are SIGMA PHI EPSILON'S OLDEST OFFICIAL JEWELER.
